

Aluma-wood vs. Wood

Aluma-wood patio covers have revolutionized the patio cover industry. They are replacing wood patio covers at an amazingly fast pace because they are durable, affordable and virtually maintenance free. Aluma-wood is strong aluminum that is embossed with a natural wood-grain finish and baked on enamel. The huge bonus here is that it never needs painting.

Wood patio covers are going by the wayside due to a variety of problems. They are subject to dry rot, termites, warping, peeling and cracking (see picture below for examples of how wood looks when these problems arise). Because the paint on wood covers deteriorates so rapidly, they need to be scraped and repainted quite often. This is an expensive and time-consuming project.

Homeowners are rushing to replace their wood covers with strong aluma-wood that looks like new all year long. And, yes, we can remove your wood cover for you!
